

Eric J. Koepcke

eric_koepcke@berkeley.edu | CV | Website | LinkedIn

Education

- University of California, Berkeley | May 2023
Doctor of Philosophy
Economics | GPA: 3.87
 - University of Wisconsin-Madison | May 2015
Bachelor of Science; graduated with Distinction
Majors: Economics, Mathematics; Minor: Computer Science | GPA: 3.94
-

Experience

- Applied Scientist II, Uber | 2024–
 - CRM Marketing Science
 - Data Scientist, New York City Council | 2023–2024
 - Leveraged data and statistics to craft and assess legislation
 - Communicated and collaborated with various stakeholders, including Council Members, lawyers, and policy specialists
 - Created data journalism webpages to share research results with a broad audience
 - Adjunct Assistant Professor of Business, Columbia Business School | 2023–
 - Professor for MBA Game Theory
 - “Can Hourly Workers Predict Their Short-Term Liquidity Needs? Evidence from an Earned Wage Access Fintech Experiment” (with Luisa Cefala and Nicholas Swanson)
 - Secured a research partnership with an Earned Wage Access (EWA) fintech company
 - Combined experiment and app data to answer a key policy and regulation question
 - Research Assistant, UC Berkeley Economics | 2019–2020
 - Calibrated and simulated a numerical model and performed applied theoretical work
 - Teaching Assistant, UC Berkeley Economics | 2018–2019
 - Taught game theory and intermediate macroeconomics
 - Senior Research Assistant, The Brookings Institution | 2015–2017
 - Communicated research findings to journalists and policymakers
 - Co-authored and published a research paper on the US workplace retirement system
-

Skills/Languages

- R, Python, SQL, Stata, Econometrics, Experiments, Surveys, Machine Learning

Selected Honors

- National Science Foundation Graduate Research Fellowship; UC Berkeley Departmental Fellowship; UC Berkeley Opportunity Lab Graduate Research Award